"If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, do more and become more, you are a leader."

- John Quincy Adams

Fellow Oregon FFA Members,

All too often people assume the most vocal, outgoing, well presented, or demanding person is the leader. That public speaking, delegating, and a loud voice are the only components we need; however, this is not a true leader. Not only can a true leader influence everyone by reaching out, but a true leader can lead others to action.

At my first Umpqua District Leadership Camp, having been an FFA member for a whole two weeks, I was amazed at the amount of action happening. This was my first experience of so much going on at once. There were basketball, volleyball, kick ball games and even more people socializing and making mail boxes. When I looked around, I noticed six individuals; one at each place, participating with everyone. However, these individuals were wearing official dress. I was amazed at their confidence, ability to motivate, and how passionate they were about this organization. During the two days we spent at leadership camp, I began to think about what it would mean to be a state officer. It was in Glide, Oregon when I decided I wanted to spend my life helping others and becoming a leader in the FFA.

Almost four years later, I still have the same interest. My high school experience has been filled with activities and sports, but one thing has stood out personally: my passion for this organization that has done so much for me. The opportunities I have had in this organization travelling to Indianapolis, Washington DC, and Denver have made me who I am today. It is now my time to give back, to help starry eyed freshmen like I was get involved and reap the benefits of the FFA. Oregon FFA, I proudly announce my candidacy for Oregon FFA State Office. If we all take action together we can make this possible for every member in our organization. It is our time to take action!

Sincerely,

Adam Powell
